Accident at the Flume.

Jack Elliot, Superintendent of the flume, was found in the yard in an unconscious condition yesterday afternoon. He was working in the yard and was apparently in good health. A few minutes later he was found by two railroad men leaning against a post. He was taken to the company's office, but could not tell the telephone call for Carson, and it was necessary to drive a team into town to get a physician. It is thought he experienced something in the nature of an apoplectic fit or that he fell from the car.

LATER: From enquiries at the company's office in Carson we learn that Mr. Elliott has recovered consciousness, and the physician, (Dr. Cavell), says he does not think he is injured internally.

Mr. Elliott was getting down off a lumber pile, and stepped on a round stick which turned and threw him so that a plank struck him in the breast and stomach.

Loss in the Postoffice.

The postmaster of this place experienced quite a severe loss this week. A small buckskin sack containing a considerable sum of gold was placed in a large canvas bag containing silver, Tuesday evening. Wednesday afternoon one of Postmaster Bell's assistants informed him that it had disappeared and asked him if he had taken it. He replied that he had not and a thorough search failed to reveal its whereabouts. Mr. Bell at once telegraphed for the Government Inspector who, however, discovered nothing.

Mr. Bell says he accuses no one and rather attributes the loss to negligence on the part of the attaches.

Bondsmen Withdrawn.

Postmaster Bell's bondsmen held a meeting at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and Mr. Bell will receive a letter notifying him of their action by which they withdraw from his bonds.

This action was taken because Mr. Bell recently appointed Robert Riggs, assistant postmaster. Riggs, the claim is from California and they considered that popular sentiment justified them in so doing.

On the other hand Mr. Riggs' friends say he has been a resident of the State nine years and has only been out of it for a short time during the past Winter, and that Mr. Riggs is a thoroughly competent man with considerable previous experience.
